

SAINT LOUIS UNIVERSITY - MACELWANE HALL

KWAME completed a $2 Million interior renovation of MacElwane Hall on the Saint Louis University campus. The project included the renovation of laboratory space, classrooms and offices in the four-story building. The project began in July 2006 and was completed in December 2006.

"The timeframe on the project was challenging," said Craig Lucas, KWAME project executive. "We completed six laboratories in six weeks for phase one. Our team, in coordination with Saint Louis University, worked around classes and existing facilities to complete the construction of the new research and teaching laboratories during the restricted time frame for phase one."

Construction Cost: $2 Million
Completion Date: 2006
